George Huskins

George E. Huskins, well-known Auburn man, died late Friday afternoon at his home, on Goff street. He had been confined to his home since last September, but continued to carry on his real estate and insurance business.

Mr. Huskins was born in 1863 in Lisbon, the son of Charles D. and Jennie Huskins. He attended the elementary schools, and high school for a time. In 1884 he married Miss Carrie Ellen Starbird of Lisbon, who died ten years ago.

Mr. Huskins was for year actively interested in politics. For eight years he was a deputy sheriff at Lisbon, and in 1900 he was elected sheriff of Androscoggin county, holding that office for two terms. He was formerly a member of the Auburn city planning board, for some years, as well as of the Republican city committee, but of late ill health has compelled him to give up some of his activities.

At one time he was associated with the F. G. Davis company in the wholesale grocery business, and afterwards operated a shirt factory in Auburn for a short time. Some time ago he purchased the insurance business owned by Frank Conant, which he has since conducted.

Mr. Huskins leaves two daughters, Miss Maudelena Huskins, who teaches in the Edward Little high school, and Miss Eloise Huskins, professor of home economics at the State college in Brookings, S. D.; and two sons, George C. Huskins, manager of an insurance agency at Seattle, Wash., and Clifford Huskins of Boston.
